

For such a thing to happen,
my shots must reach the net.

I think of leaping over cliffs to sail around the sky.

Yet when I look before I leap,
I just turn white and cry.

I dream of playing soccer
with grass stains on my shirt.